Growth and Transformation Plan 2010/11–2014/15 – Volume II

This poverty reduction strategy paper, (PRSP): Growth and Transformation Plan 2010/11–2014/15 of the Federal Democratic Republic of Ethiopia was prepared by authorities of the Federal Democratic Republic of Ethiopia. PRSPs are prepared by member countries in broad consultation with stakeholders and development partners, including the staffs of the World Bank and the IMF. Updated every three years, with annual progress reports, they describe the country's macroeconomic, structural, and social policies in support of growth and poverty reduction, as well as associated external financing needs and major sources of financing.

The views expressed in this document are those of the member country and do not necessarily reflect the views of the International Monetary Fund staff or the Executive Board of the IMF.

The policy of publication of staff reports and other documents by the IMF allows for the deletion of market-sensitive information.

Introduction

The basis for the Growth and Transformation Plan (GTP) Policy Matrix is the benchmark placed in the Government's existing Welfare Monitoring and Evaluation (M&E) System which has been in place since 1996. The M&E system tracks progress of key indicators in several sectors of the economy taken at the unit of observation that is consistent with the structure of intergovernmental responsibilities. The system provides the Government with reliable mechanisms to measure the efficiency of those government actions and the effectiveness of public policies in achieving the objectives stated in the GTP. Moreover, the M&E system ensures that the Government and other stakeholders have a good understanding of the nature and distribution of poverty in all its dimensions and are able to monitor changes in the incidence, depth and severity of poverty as well as enables to monitor the implementation of the actions contained in the GTP and identify challenges as they emerge. This policy matrix details the annual targets against the indicators unbundling the summarized targets in the main document. Each targets and indicators are also linked to the Millennium Development Goals (MDGs).

Accordingly, this policy matrix is a subset of the essential activities of the overall M&E of the GTP and hence the Millennium Development Goals (MDGs). It is formulated through new data collection, integration of existing data and advanced analysis of all available data obtained from the relevant sector ministries. Furthermore, it sets the basis for a transparent process by which the Government, development partners and other stakeholders can undertake a shared appraisal of intended results.

The Welfare Monitoring Unit (WMU) of the Development Planning and Research Directorate (DPRD) of the MoFED has been responsible for developing the matrix by relying on a variety of sources of data obtained from sector ministries and Central Statistical Agency to fulfill its monitoring tasks. Moreover, as a key user, it has a key function in ensuring that the relevant data are collected for these purposes.

The policy matrix has been benefited from successive discussions with the development stakeholders as well as relevant sector ministries and the final output is enriched by the comments and feedback obtained from them.

1. Objective and Scope of the Policy Matrix

The objective of this policy matrix is to contribute to a better and broad-based M&E of the GTP and the MDGs based on high quality and widely used qualitative and quantitative data analysis thereby creating the necessary evidence to measure progresses against the GTP policies and strategies.

The policy matrix summarizes GTP targets. Therefore, indicators indicated in the policy matrix are aligned and synchronized with the sector program targets and are the reflection of the main text in volume I of the GTP. In addition, necessary efforts are exerted to make the indicators attributable to the Government and to make them measurable on annual basis. However, it should be noted that the set of indicators put forward to be monitored and the framework and processes for analysis and evaluation of the GTP are an evolving component of the GTP M&E system. In some sectors, the indicators summarize the base year and end year annual targets.

The remaining annual information expected to be fulfilled while the sector ministries are preparing and reporting their annual plan and progress report.

2. Structure and Logical Framework of the Policy Matrix

The policy matrix is structured by sectoral thematic groups following logical framework that enables to observe the link with the MDGs as well as linking the annual targets with outputs and objectives. It also includes qualitative and quantitative indicators with the base year information and planned targets for the GTP period (2009/10-2014/15). The logical framework structural arrangement represented as follows

The activities to be carried out have been narrated in the main GTP document (Volume I) in particular under the implementing strategy sections of each sector. As deemed necessary, means of verification is provided as well. These means of verifications are the annual progress reports of the implementing sector ministries and data collected by the Central Statistical Agency with the analysis results of the data sets produced by MoFED.

In some sectors, the approach designed to indicate cumulative performance for the base year and annual targets to be achieved in each year. This design helps monitor and evaluate progresses achieved. This could be pursued by summing up annual performance and baseline cumulative performance rather than mixing performance and planned targets in the program period.

In terms of order, the matrix follows the detailed narration of the respective sectors discussed in the main text.

3. Limitation of the Policy Matrix

Some of the indicators in the matrix lack baseline data. But all the indicators have annual targets in the program period whether the implementation for that specific target will start in the middle of the program period or be completed before the end of the GTP period. The main reason attributable for non-existence of baseline data could be that specified indicator is newly incorporated in monitoring and evaluation system.

There are matrices that are to some extent long (for instance rural development and food security, education, industry development, construction and urban development, democratization and good governance). This is because poverty reduction is integrated into the national development plan and believed to indicate detailed program targets. Users can select indicators and targets that suit their interest out of this domain.

4. Means of verification

For verification of the progress made in GTP implementation, annual reports of sector ministries and surveys conducted by the Central Statistical Agency of Ethiopia such as welfare monitoring survey, household income and consumption expenditure survey, demographic and health survey conducted every five years will be used. The monthly price survey and inflation rate prepared by the CSA and reports of the Ministry of Finance and Economic development will be useful to monitor macroeconomic developments and poverty reduction. The CSA has developed a National Statistical Development Strategy (NSDS) that has been approved by the national statistics council.

The NSDS has been revised to address the data needs of GTP and it has defined strategic directions and designed an action plan to compile and analyze data from censuses, surveys and administrative sources. The CSA also provides technical support to government and other implementing bodies on statistical data keeping and builds capacity continuously for registration, administrative data gathering, compilation, analysis and reporting systems. For M&E of the progress towards achievement of MDGs and the targets set in the GTP the CSA plans to conduct Agriculture, Natural Resource and Environmental Statistics, Population Surveys, Household Surveys and Price Statistics and Business Statistics. Therefore, the sectors' annual progress reports can be directly or indirectly benefited from these surveys. In order to evaluate the progress in terms of poverty reduction, the Welfare Monitoring Unit of MoFED will estimate the incidence, depth and severity of poverty using Household Income and Consumption Expenditure Survey and Welfare Monitoring survey data to be collected by the CSA. .
