

Menzie D. Chinn is Professor of Public Affairs and Economics at the University of Wisconsin's Robert M. La Follette School of Public Affairs. His research examines macroeconomic interactions between countries, including the behavior of exchange rates, the measurement of currency misalignment, and the behavior of current account balances. He is currently an associate editor of the Journal of Money, Credit and Banking, and formerly an associate editor of the Journal of International Economics and Review of International Economics.

In 2000-2001, Professor Chinn served as Senior Staff Economist for International Finance on the President's Council of Economic Advisers. He is currently a Research Associate in the International Finance and Macroeconomics Program of the National Bureau of Economic Research, and has been a visiting scholar at the International Monetary Fund, the Congressional Budget Office, the Federal Reserve Board and the European Central Bank.

He is coauthor (with Jeffrey Frieden) of Lost Decades: The Making of America's Debt Crisis and the Long Recovery (September 2011, W.W. Norton), and contributor to Econbrowser, a weblog devoted to current macroeconomic issues.

Prior to his appointment at the University of Wisconsin–Madison in 2003, Professor Chinn taught at the University of California, Santa Cruz. He received his doctorate in Economics from the University of California, Berkeley, and his AB from Harvard University.
