

Job Opportunity
Economist
IMF Regional Office for Asia and the Pacific (OAP) in Tokyo

The International Monetary Fund's Regional Office for Asia and the Pacific (OAP) in Tokyo is looking for a locally recruited economist to support OAP's economic and financial monitoring, outreach, and capacity building activities in Japan and other Asian countries in a variety of assignments.

Main tasks will be monitoring and analyzing macroeconomic, financial sector, and structural developments; preparing reports and presentations; and assisting in the preparation of seminars and conferences. Opportunities for economic research may also arise.

Necessary qualifications include the following: high-caliber graduate training in economics, ideally at the PhD level; advanced knowledge of econometrics, related software packages and standard economic databases; proficiency in Excel and presentation software; excellent English writing skills and excellent command of Japanese, with effective verbal and written communication skills; accuracy and attention to details; ability to work in a team as well as independently and to multi-task under pressure.

The salary would be commensurate with background and experience.

The position is full-time and would be available from November 2020. After successful completion of an initial period of one year, a fixed-term contract of two years may be offered.

Interested candidates are invited to apply by submitting application letter, resume, and certificates/transcripts through the following online registration form by September 15, 2020. Applicants are also requested to ask up to three referees to send letters of recommendation directly to oap1@imf.org by the same date.
