

Thomas Doe Nah is Co-founder and Executive Director of the Center for Transparency and Accountability in Liberia (CENTAL) and National Coordinator of the Coalition for Transparency and Accountability in Education (COTAE). For the last ten years Nah has been in the vanguard; fighting corruption and advocating for systems that promote accountability and transparency in the public and private sectors. Nah formerly worked in the Economic and Commercial Section of the United States Embassy in Monrovia. During that period he analyzed the economic and commercial transactional issues in the political economy of Liberia for the United States Government and was an active participant in key economic governance initiative. He participated on the Technical Team of the Governance Economic Management Assistance Program (GEMAP) as well as the Steering committee of the Liberia Extractive Industries Transparency Initiative (LEITI). Nah is also credited with eight years of progressive work in Liberia's banking sector. He served a Vice President at the International Bank Liberia Limited and Loan Officer at the Liberian Bank for Development and Investment. Mr. Nah is a Liberian national educated at the University of Liberia.
